2nd February 2024

Dear Parents / Carers,

So, after what many feel has been the longest January in living memory, we now, somehow, seem to find ourselves just one week away from our half term break. Further to this, the newsletter this week seems to have a distinct lack of news for which I can only apologise!

Non-Uniform Day

Just a reminder that next Friday we will be holding a non-uniform day to support 'Go Make a Difference', a charity one of our families will be working with (<https://www.gomakeadifference.co.uk/>). I am hoping that all of our children will want to take part, giving a donation of one pound which will be donated to the charity.

World Book Day

Just a reminder that WBD will be on 7th March this year and, as with recent years, we are not asking the children to dress up. However, we will be ensuring that a number of activities will be happening to help ensure that everybody enjoys and celebrates the day. I shall ensure that I get around each class to share a story or two!

If you also want to commemorate the day at home, you can find some ideas and activities by following the link below:

Safer Internet Day

Next Tuesday 6th February is the Safer Internet Day. This is now an international event with countries across the globe encouraged to join in to raise awareness, especially among young people, of how we can ensure that the power of the internet is harnessed in the most effective and safe way possible. In school, we will be taking part in sharing activities and information with the children (as we do at all times anyway!) but if you wish to discuss this at home, then I have added the link below for you to access:

And Finally....

I think that is about it for this week. Not what you might call the most riveting of reads but I shall heed the advice of my old school reports and try harder next week! Until then, wishing you all a pleasant weekend.

Yours Sincerely
C. Gibson
